WELCOME TO GILMORE

A table set with two hundred years of memory

Before he became a chef, Damian D’Silva was a young boy watching his Grandad, Gilmore D’Silva, the longtime caretaker of the Supreme Court cook dishes from memory, recipes passed down over 200 years.

Here, those recipes are revived inside the very building Grandad once kept the keys to. Still made from scratch — with patience, precision and heart.

THE STORY · 1939 – 1960

Grandad, keeper of the keys

Gilmore D’Silva was the first and only custodian of the Supreme Court. For 21 years he kept its keys, lived in the caretaker’s quarters, hosted family gatherings and, now and then, cooked for the judges.

A cook of rare range — Eurasian, Malay, Sri Lankan and Chinese — he left a deep imprint on young Damian. Every restaurant Chef Damian has led has been a nod to Grandad; this one returns to the very building he gave so much of his life to.

AT THE TABLE

Time-honoured recipes, cooked with care, unhurried

Our menu is built on heirloom Eurasian recipes — some more than 200 years old, alongside Chinese dishes inspired by Grandad's home cooking. Everything is made from scratch, the traditional way.

For events and private dining, guests may explore Chef Damian's full repertoire of Singapore heritage cuisine, each dish thoughtfully prepared upon request.

THE CHEF'S EXPERIENCE

A menu that begins at dawn

$200 per person, curated by Chef Damian

Every menu begins in Singapore's wet markets, where Chef Damian hand-selects the day's produce to build a menu for your event alone — each dish made from scratch, the traditional way.

For something rarer still, ask about the Nose-to-Tail Feast: a multi-course dinner that uses an entire pig, thoughtfully, from start to finish. No two menus are ever alike.
